

Illinois Coalition for School Health Centers

A project of the Illinois Maternal and Child Health Coalition

School Health Center Statewide Conference: Collaboration, Community, Commitment

The Illinois Coalition for School Health Centers (ICSHC), a project of Illinois Maternal and Child Health Coalition, is a statewide partnership of public and private organizations that strives to improve the physical and mental health of children and adolescents by fostering the development, stabilization and expansion of school health centers. ICSHC is the lead professional organization in the school health center field.

Collaboration, Community, Commitment is ICSHC's 6th Annual Statewide Conference. This year's theme reflects the school health center community's leadership and commitment to improving the overall health and well-being of students in Illinois. School health centers are planned partnerships among schools, communities, providers, parents and students. Partners engage in continuous dialogue to meet the health needs of the community's children and adolescents. We expect over one hundred attendees for our 2008 conference, which will provide a forum for centers to learn, share and collaborate.
